

once it's gone,
it's gone

Macular Degeneration Awareness

There is hope. Treatments for macular degeneration can now prevent blindness. Visiting an eye care professional can help diagnose macular degeneration to determine which of the disease you have.

Macular degeneration is a leading cause of irreversible blindness and visual impairment in the world. As many as 11 million people in the United States have some form of macular degeneration.

Without any early signs of macular degeneration, it is important to check with a professional right away. To learn more about reducing the risk of being afflicted, visit www.savingvision.org.